Dear Dr Kettemborough

YOU HAVE BEEN PERSONALLY NOMINATED AS THE CAMBRIDGE BLUE BOOK MAN OF THE YEAR

From the pages of the Cambridge Blue Book you have been singled out by one of our Researchers to receive The Cambridge Blue Book Man of the Year award. This annual award is made to you for your outstanding contribution, which I have personally ratified.

For over forty years the IBC has earned a reputation as one of the most respected international biographical reference publishers. Its titles are read and studied worldwide and The Cambridge Blue Book is no exception. In addition you will, by right, have your extended biographical entry included in the alphabetical listing which forms the raison d'être for The Cambridge Blue Book.

To celebrate this important distinction The Certificate of Proclamation is an impressive reminder of this nomination. Printed on fine parchment in three individual colours and signed personally by the Director General of the IBC and the Researcher who nominated you for this prestigious award, its authority will speak for itself. The Certificate can be laminated onto an elegant wooden base, if desired, so that it can be preserved for all time and made ready for instant wall hanging in either an office or at home.

The traditionally struck Medal of Excellence is finished in silver gilt and is individually engraved with the year of investiture next to the title of The Cambridge Blue Book Man of the Year. Your name will be clearly engraved in the centre of the medal. Each medal arrives in a baize lined presentation box for safety and has a distinctively coloured neck ribbon for display when wearing on formal occasions.

An example of both the Certificate of Proclamation and the Medal of Excellence is illustrated in the enclosed brochure.

Congratulations! You are one of the first recipients of The Cambridge Blue Book Man of the Year.

Sincerely,

Nicholas S. Law
Director General
